Qualitative Information and Overview of Business Performance

The business environment during the first quarter of the current fiscal year saw expansion in the economy of the United States, Europe and Asia. The Japanese economy was also strong, buoyed by vigorous capital investment and personal consumption. However, economic uncertainties emerged, including rising raw material and fuel prices and interest rates on a global scale. Under these circumstances, the Kuraray Group started the implementation of its new GS-21 medium-term business plan from April 2006. Under GS-21, the Group is promoting expansion of new growth fields such as optical materials and enhancing contributions to sales growth from capital investments in new production facilities and facility expansion primarily in its core material businesses, while endeavoring to pass on higher raw material and fuel prices in the form of higher product prices. As a result, net sales for the first quarter of the current fiscal year rose to ¥91,024 million, an increase of 7.6% compared with the same period of the previous fiscal year, and operating income surged 20.7% to ¥8,853 million. Furthermore, ordinary income grew 21.9% to ¥8,304 million, and net income for the quarter totaled ¥5,298 million, a sharp rise of 41.4%. Business conditions by segment compared with the same period a year earlier were as follows.

Chemicals and Resins

In poval, demand for optical-use poval film used in LCDs was strong. Fully leveraging the production capacity (30 million m² per year) of two optical film production lines expanded at Kuraray Tamashima Co., Ltd. during the previous year, Kuraray achieved sales growth. Stagnant demand for poval resin in Asia was offset by robust demand for paper processing agent applications in Europe. In addition, a brisk performance in polyvinyl butyral (PVB) film for use in construction materials contributed to growth of overall poval resin sales. Demand for EVAL, an ethylene vinyl alcohol polymer resin, for food packaging application was steady. Expanded EVAL applications for automobiles in Asia and for pipes in floor heating systems in Europe also contributed to overall sales expansion. Sales of methacrylic resin dropped, adversely affected by downsizing of the monomer business, declining prices and stagnant demand from light-guide plate applications. In isoprene-related products, demand for SEPTON was strong while in the fine chemical field, intensifying competition impacted the Company's performance. As a result of the aforementioned, overall sales in this segment finished with a slight increase.

Fibers and Textiles

In this segment, the KURALON business was steady, backed by a solid performance in asbestos substitute applications and of a water soluble type of KURALON K-II. Sales of the man-made leather CLARINO were strong in polishing materials and light industry products, but suffered from sluggish growth for use in apparel and shoes. In nonwoven fabrics and fastening materials, automobile applications staged stable growth. Kuraray furthered the shift toward differentiated polyester products.

High-Performance Materials, Medical Products and Others

In the medical business, dental materials experienced healthy growth while medical devices were influenced by the biennial revision of pharmaceutical prices by the government. Sales of opto-screens continued to suffer from contracting demand and other factors. The heat-resistant polyamide resin GENESTAR enjoyed healthy orders in Japan and other Asian countries, especially for use in electronics materials. Sales of activated carbon were brisk, reflecting a strong performance in water purification applications.
